

Imagine that you have had diffuse cutaneous systemic sclerosis for 3 years and are a candidate for stem cell transplant.

Which treatment do you prefer?

Question 2 of 12

	Stem cell transplant A	Stem cell transplant B	No stem cell transplant
Years after treatment without further scleroderma organ damage 	2 years	10 years	1 year
Immune suppression treatment and risk of immediate complications 	Low dose chemotherapy and full body irradiation: Risk of complications which could lead to death: 5% (5 in 100)  Click here for more information	Low dose chemotherapy and targeted irradiation: Risk of complications which could lead to death: 2.5% (2.5 in 100)  Click here for more information	No additional risk of immediate complications
Late complications (i.e. cancer) 	Risk of late complication from treatment (e.g. cancer) in the future: 5% (5 in 100)  Click for more information	Risk of late complication from treatment (e.g. cancer) in the future: 20% (20 in 100)  Click for more information	No additional risk of late complications
Team care (in addition to the standard medical care) 	Multidisciplinary care: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Extended medical team + allied health professionals to provide mental, wellbeing and nutritional support 	Extended medical team: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Rheumatologist Hematologist Cardiologist Respirologist Nurse 	No additional team members
Number of people with scleroderma the hematologist has treated using stem cell transplant 	5 or more patients	Less than 5 patients	No information
Additional cost to you (expenses not covered by the provincial health plan, nor your health insurance) 	$5,000 - $10,000	$1,000 - $5,000	No additional costs
Additional distance of treatment center to your home 	Between 50 and 300 km	More than 1,000 km	0 km

Which treatment do you prefer?

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------